Education:

- PhD student in Animal and Food Science

Research areas:

- Milk and Dairy Products

PhD project:

My research topic is to study the technological traits of milk, which can describe the attributes of milk in relation to produce high-quality dairy products. My aim is to evaluate the nutrient contents in raw milk and to improve the nutritional value of the final dairy products. Moreover, I will also study how this nutritional improvement in milk products will have possible effect on human health.
